

CARRANZA SLAIN AS HE FLEES

Wealthy Draft Dodger Makes His Escape

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 22.—Cover (Cleveland) Bergdoll, the wealthy draft dodger who escaped from noncommissioned army officers at his mother's home here yesterday in a high powered motor car, was still at liberty today. Both federal and city authorities said that an all night search had failed to reveal even the direction in which he went.

Shortly after Bergdoll got away the police covered all avenues of escape around the city and every place it was thought he would be likely to go was closely watched throughout the night. After describing the fugitive and the car in which he made his escape were sent to all sections of the country and it was announced that a systematic search would be made for him.

The exact nature of Bergdoll's visit to Philadelphia with which was considered of sufficient importance to warrant his temporary release from the military prison at Fort Jay, N. Y., where he was serving a five years' sentence for evading the draft, had not been explained. According to the military authorities at Governor's Island he was given a three days' furlough to attend to "important business matters" which were said to be confidential. Department of justice agents here are investigating certain aspects of the case, which they say point strongly to collusion. While they would not say upon whom their suspicions rested, they declared they were convinced that Bergdoll was aided in his escape.

When he got away Bergdoll was dressed in his army prison garb of olive drab denim and an unbuttoned shirt which he wore on a string about his neck, was his convict number, 10.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 22.—Cover Cleveland Bergdoll, rich draft dodger, who escaped from two army guards at Philadelphia, yesterday, was permitted to leave Fort Jay on representation of his counsel that he had secured a large sum of money in place known only to himself. Secretary Baker said today in a formal statement.

Mr. Baker denied published reports that he had authorized the morning of Bergdoll, and said his first knowledge of the prisoner's escape came when he was then Adjutant General Harris reported his escape. The secretary added that on receiving this report he directed an immediate and thorough investigation.

The escape of Bergdoll was brought to my attention yesterday afternoon by General Harris, the adjutant general, shortly after it occurred," said the secretary. "I had no previous knowledge of any mission, confidential or otherwise on Bergdoll's part, and did not know that he had been brought from the prison at Governor's Island, or that there was any intention of bringing him."

JOHNSON AND WOOD NIP AND TUCK IN OREGON

PORTLAND, ORE., May 22.—Scattered and incomplete returns from yesterday's presidential preference primary in Oregon indicated a close race between Major General Leonard Wood and Senator Hiram W. Johnson for the Republican vote.

Figures compiled in the office of the Portland Oregonian from incomplete returns from 22 of the 35 counties in the state showed General Wood leading Johnson by 251 votes. The vote was:

Wood, 2,459; Johnson, 2,405; Lowden, 924; Hoover, 737.

The Oregonian's compilation indicated that Johnson was leading in Multnomah county (Portland) and that Wood was running ahead in the outside counties.

COMMITTEES AT RAILROAD CENTERS ARE ROUTING CARS

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 22.—Formation of committees at 30 principal rail centers to supervise expedient forwarding of cars was looked upon today as a preliminary step towards a speedy untangling of freight congestion which has threatened to paralyze rail transportation throughout the country. This move is supplemental to action by the interstate commerce commission providing for reopening and pooling of equipment which is expected to relieve the situation generally. Clearing of sidetracks at less important rail points and elimination of basic causes for delay and congestion were left for future consideration.

Members of the commission continued today their conferences with railroad officials understood to be considering the general question of priorities and embargoes, through which it is believed, the time required for satisfactory movement of traffic will be lessened.

The committees formed to supervise forwarding of freight will begin work next week at the following cities: Omaha, Seattle, Baltimore, Cincinnati, Youngstown, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Norfolk, New York, St. Louis, Boston, Denver, Philadelphia, Buffalo, Portland, Ore., Peoria, Birmingham, Kansas City, Cleveland, Detroit, Washington, New Orleans, Pittsburgh, Louisville, Galveston, Atlanta, San Francisco, Dallas, Toledo and Chicago.

Want To Know Why Prices Do Not Decline

LOS ANGELES, CAL., May 22.—The federal grand jury will begin an investigation Wednesday as to why clothing prices have not fallen in Los Angeles and San Diego, J. Robert O'Connor, United States attorney, announced today.

Resolutions that "no general price reduction can take place at the present time except at the loss and financial peril of the retailer, or by causes that create a panic," were adopted by the Merchants and Manufacturers' Association today.

ENGINEER SCORES STATE'S POLICY IN BUILDING PENITENTIARY AT LONDON

COLUMBUS, O., May 22.—The state's policy in building the penitentiary near London is severely criticized by Clifford C. Cummins, engineer, in a report made to the joint legislative committee on administrative reorganization. Mr. Cummins says the proposed penitentiary will cost $5,500,000 based upon the architect's estimates in June, 1918, with 10 percent added to cover increased cost of building material since that date.

He declares the people should know what is implied in this proposed investment for housing 2,000 persons convicted of felony, and asks whether the state can afford to spend so much money for this purpose.

He compares the alleged proposed investment to sums invested in other institutions as follows:

"It is almost enough the total amount now invested in the state institutions for care of defectives whose population (1918) was five times as great as the capacity of the new penitentiary."

"It is within one-ninth of the total amount invested in Ohio State University, Ohio University and Miami University, which together care for 10,000 students."

"It is 37 percent of the total invested in rural schools in Ohio."

"It exceeds the entire present investment of the state in correctional institutions (penitentiary, two reformatories and two industrial schools.)"

The proposed conservatory, the report says, will cost six times as much as the average school building and 30 times as much as the average rural school building. The proposed administration building 50 percent more than the state house annex, and the proposed administration building, multi-story, mess hall and kitchen more than the state house.

General, In Flight With Deposed Mexican President, Turns On Associates And Kills Them

MEXICO CITY, May 21—(By The Associated Press)—President Venustian Carranza who, with a small party of followers has been a fugitive in the mountains of Puebla since late last week, was killed at Tlaxcalantongo early Thursday morning, according to official announcement here. His companions, the names of whom are unknown, also were killed.

General Rodolfo Herrera, it is said, directed the attack that resulted in the death of the fugitive president and his followers. He belongs to forces commanded by General Francisco de Mariel, who accompanied Carranza in his flight from this city, but who last week deserted Carranza and joined the revolutionists.

There is some uncertainty regarding the exact affiliation of General Herrera. It is generally believed possible, however, that he commanded a small guard which was with the fleeing president. He was in rebellion against Carranza for several years, centering his operations in the state of Puebla. He surrendered last March to General Mariel, who was in command of government forces in that state.

When General Mariel went over to the revolutionists last week a portion of his troops, it is known, remained loyal to the president, and better exists that Carranza might have taken along with him in his flight toward Tlaxcalantongo, which finally turned against him.

Tlaxcalantongo is a small village in the vicinity of Huamantla, in the northern Pan handle of the state of Puebla. It is approximately 85 miles from San Andres, where Carranza left his forces and took refuge in the mountains.

The official announcement was given out at 10:30 o'clock tonight from the headquarters of General Alvarez Obregon.

STIFF FIGHT ON SOLDIER BONUS BILL

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 22.—On a strict party vote, the house committee today ordered a favorable report of a resolution giving soldier relief legislation the right of way for house consideration. (Chairman Campbell said the rule would not be presented to the house before Tuesday.)

WASHINGTON, May 22.—House opponents of soldier relief legislation were concentrating their forces today in an effort to prevent consideration of the bonus bill next week under limitations prescribed by Republican leaders. They were successful yesterday in preventing a vote today as had been planned.

Minority members influenced by about 60 Republicans were determined to oppose the steering committee's plan to have the measure introduced and either adopted or rejected by Thursday without full privilege of amendments. "They consider their combination was sufficiently strong to defeat the rule giving the bill right of way for passage, or to amend the rule and thus pass the way for introduction of a tax on war profits."

Representative H. H. Miller of Illinois, ranking minority member of the ways and means committee, in his report stated he would sponsor a bill to include the war profits tax in the bill. He said the bill was ill-considered and calculated to "bury us over nearer financial disaster."

Chairman Campbell, submitting the minority report, avoided any direct argument for passage of the measure and asserted that the legislation could be amended only by new taxes, without which he declared, the measure would be "ineffective, if not entirely useless."

Republican leaders still maintained that the bill would eventually pass the house and then be sent to the senate. None predicted what disposition would be made of it there.

FOUR CARS OF FLIER LEAVE RAILS, THREE PEOPLE HURT

CINCINNATI, O., May 22.—The Chicago flier on the Pennsylvania railroad, due in Cincinnati at 6:10 a. m. is reported to have been wrecked early today at North Collinsville, 12 miles north of Hamilton. The entire train, with the exception of the sleeper, is said to have turned over. No one is reported killed but several are said to have been severely hurt.

Division headquarters of the Pennsylvania railroad are at Richmond Indiana and relief and wrecking trains were sent to the scene of the wreck from that city.

Pennsylvania railroad officials in Cincinnati said the wrecked train was a passenger train of the Grand Rapids and Indiana division of the Pennsylvania lines. The Chicago flier was following the Grand Rapids and Indiana train the officials said.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 22.—No agreement on plans for adjournment or recess of congress over the political conventions was reached today at the conference of Republican senators.

U. S. To Act In Role Of Arbitrator

PARIS, May 22.—Ambassador Wallave informed the council of ambassadors today that President Wilson had announced that the United States would accept the role of arbitrator in fixing the boundaries of Armenia.

Recalling the president's attitude toward the Armenian question, the council of ambassadors today took immediate steps to learn details that would clear up the manner of Carranza's death.

The details of the Mexican president's death will have to be known fully before the state department makes any decision which would bear on the questions of recognition which probably would not be taken up at all until after elections in Mexico.

MISS DOLLY WISE

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, etiquette, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dear Dolly—Will you please explain the method of presidential election? Our civics tells us that men called electors meet and cast the vote at the Electoral College. Who are these men and how are they chosen? Do their names appear on the presidential ballot? Has Ohio 23 electoral votes? Does the whole electoral vote of a state go to one candidate or can a state be divided?

TWO HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS
The National Committee of each great political party is the foundation of the party organization. This committee consists of one member from each state. The national committee for a state is elected by the party organization of the state. The national committee elects its chairman and the other officers. At least a year before the people vote for Presidential Electors, the National Committee of each party meets, selects a city for the national nominating convention, sets the date for the convention, and determines the number of delegates each state shall be entitled to send to the national convention. The National Committee then issues the party "call" for the national convention. The number of delegates from a state is dependent in part upon the number of members and U. S. Senators from the state; it also depends somewhat upon the number of popular votes cast in the state for the party nominees at the previous national election. Between the time of sending out the party "call" and the date set for the national convention, party members in each state elect their delegates to the national convention. In states holding primary elections for delegates, the usual procedure is to permit voters in each congressional district to vote for two delegates from their congressional district and for two delegates at large from the state. States not holding primary elections select their delegates in a state convention of party members. When the National Republican convention meets on June 28 in Chicago, and the National Democratic Convention meets on June 28 in San Francisco, the chairman of the National party committee will call the convention to order and announce the temporary organization of the convention, and the chairman of the Democratic committee will call the convention to order and announce the temporary organization of the convention. The committee of credentials and vote by ballot for President and will examine the credentials of those who present themselves as delegates. The committee on rules will prepare rules to be sent to the president and will prepare the convention program. The committee on resolutions will prepare resolutions to be presented to the convention. The committee on platform will prepare a platform for the party. The committee on nominations will prepare a list of names of candidates for President and Vice President. OCCUPANTS FLEE FROM FIRE IN "NIGHTIES"; HOUSE BADLY DAMAGED

Awakened by stifling smoke, which filled their room at 4 o'clock this morning, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Woods, who live at Fourth and Bond streets, discovered that their house was on fire.

The fire started in the kitchen, and so rapidly did the flames spread, that Mr. and Mrs. Woods and two children, Margaret and Janet, and Miss Julia Bix, who boards with them, had to flee in their night apparel. The only clothes they saved were those they carried in their hurry to get out of the smoke-filled house.

Mrs. Leontie Woods and four children, Elsie, Graybill, Imogene and Randolph, who occupy the front portion of the house, also were not awakened until the house was filled with smoke, and they had to get out so quickly that they too only saved a very few of their personal effects. Several of Mrs. Woods' children were compelled to flee from the home in their bare feet.

When the fire was discovered the kitchen was all aflame, and the roof was blazing high, and it looked like a serious fire was imminent.

A general alarm sounded the Seventh street and East End companies, and as soon as a line of water was thrown on the flames they were confined to the one story structure, in which they originated as there was no wind to fan the flames. The house was badly damaged by fire and water. Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Woods and Mrs. Leontie Woods purchased their cottage last year from J. S. Prichard. They carried sufficient insurance on it, but very little on their household goods.

Hazelbeck will insure you.

FRIEND'S ADVICE

To Try Cardui Proved Sound. Terrible Suffering Relieved.

Albany, Mo.—Mrs. Lillian Altes, of this place, writes: "I think Cardui is a great medicine. I suffered terribly for four years with weakness and different female troubles. I took different kinds of medicine and was doctored by our family physician all this time, but did not get any better. A friend of mine recommended Cardui, so I decided to try it.

By the time I had taken one bottle, I was so much better that I continued right on taking it until I was feeling fine and able to do all my work, and take care of my baby.

Before taking Cardui, I was in a very weak condition. I also suffered with awful sick headache and dizziness. I was unable to do anything. But since taking Cardui, I am a well woman and have no more trouble."

Card-u-i, the woman's tonic, has been in use for over 40 years. Its ingredients have been known and used by physicians for female troubles for hundreds of years.

A lighted match and gasoline proved to be a costly combination to Frank Hubbard, fourteen year old stepson of William Stevenson of South Side, Chillicothe, Friday afternoon when he died from burns received in a gasoline explosion.

He was doing some cleaning with kerosene until two men smothered the gasoline at Metcalfe's garage when flames with their clothes and tore the boy to one side. The match fell into some gasoline and an explosion followed. Hubbard's clothes being covered by the burning fluid. In his excitement he dashed back and forth through the

Rarden Planning To Honor Soldier Dead

Rarden citizens are planning to honor their soldier dead in a fitting manner at special memorial exercises to be held on Memorial Day, Sunday, May 30.

A splendid program has been arranged for the occasion and the principal feature will be an oration to be delivered by Rev. Charles H. Oakley, pastor of the First Christian church, of this city.

The exercises will be held at the Methodist church and the exercises will commence at seven-thirty o'clock.

An effort is to be made by the committee to have all the returned soldiers from Rarden township attend the services and assist in paying special tribute to the six Rarden soldiers that fell in battle in the late war and are sleeping in France.

The families of these fallen heroes have been invited and are expected to be present, while a part of the program of the evening will be a roll call of all soldiers that enlisted from the Rarden vicinity in the world war. A total of forty-two enlisted and returned safely.

The Rarden G. A. R. have completed arrangements to decorate the graves of all soldiers buried at New- man, Mt. Joy and Young cemeteries on Saturday, May 29, details from the post having been named to go to the burial grounds.

Thomas Is Fined

SHOULD PUT ON THE BRAKES

FAVORABLE report has been made in the senate on the passage of a resolution submitted by Senator Borah, calling for investigation of the investigation of expenditures in behalf of presidential candidates.

Both branches of congress have overdone the investigation business, at the same time under doing everything else, but here is a matter that is important enough to be inquired into with the utmost diligence, thoroughness and fairness. For while its suggestion may spring out of a motive to injure the candidacy of a certain individual, the evil it may correct or prevent is apparent enough.

More and more, in popular conception at least, a magnificent campaign fund has more to do with promoting the success of a candidate than either his fitness or his popularity. Little is left to the free and unbiased will and choice of the electorate body. Bureaus, committees, clubs and every sort of an organization are formed to promote a given candidacy, costly publicity is obtained and back of most of it lies the propelling force of money, money placed in the hands of experienced agencies to create sentiment and secure action. If a candidate have not money to exploit himself he loses prestige and, in the greater likelihood, the race.

The vast sums required to finance a country wide campaign, to put into use all the political arts and devices, may not come from disinterested sources, sources having no axes to grind, on the governmental whetstone, most often they do not. Therefore it becomes important, not only how much is spent in behalf of a candidate, but from what source his campaign fund comes. If the senate committee go about its proposed inquiry earnestly it may not uncover anything scandalous, or so much as suspicious, but the mere fact that the inquiry has been made in that way will have a most salutary restraining effect—to some interests exposure is as fatal as damnation itself.

A HAPPY BLUNDER

WILLIAM DEAN HOWELLS, the author of many delightful novels, who died last week, was a native of Ohio, born at Martin's Ferry.

The father of Howells was a printer and the lad early took to the same trade, as naturally in those days as a young duck took to water. His career, however, in that pursuit was cut short by an error, that intelligent compositors are likely to commit. He was given this item to set up: "Owing to the scarcity of water the millmen have stopped working." For the last "P" he substituted "k" and the paragraph ran through that way. Millmen were incensed and William Dean lost his job for being too smart. It is well that he did for otherwise the world may have never known an author and a magazine editor distinguished for the clean and refreshing fiction and fact that came from or through his hand.

Nobody, outside of a cousin, in Martin's Ferry, is related to or remembers Howells. Not altogether remarkable since sixty years have elapsed since he, then a mere boy shook the dust of the village from his feet, and he never came back. The place, however, honored his name and fame by the public schools suspending studies the day after his death and holding memorial services for him.

THE NAME DID NOT SAVE IT

VIRGINIANS are excessively proud of their state. That implies, of course, they are also proud of the name. With this understanding it seemed to us a newspaper named Virginian ought to have a peculiar appeal to them.

Perhaps, that is altogether true, but the name wasn't sufficient to save a live daily of that name, published in the capital of the state, Richmond, from falling victim to the stress of the times and turning its toes up towards the daisies. For the Virginian is no more. High cost of operating and a paper shortage, which latter has become the most pregnant cause of increasing cost are given as reasons for its suspension.

The difficulties that beset it have been common to every publication in the country, though so far not too fatally to the majority. Still there are many watching with eager suspense whether or not a similar fate is to be written for them on the first of July next when there will be a general readjustment of prices and it must be confessed they have much cause for wariness if they have not made some provision for that evil day, as the prospects now indicate paper is going to take another far upward jump.

Nathan Straus has joined the ranks of the other men—he's now dead—who says it is criminal to die rich. If Nathan really has any scruples of that sort we know several people who would gladly relieve him anywhere from a dollar to a million.

KEEP IT UP, MR. SECRETARY

IN his testimony before the committee statements made by Admiral Sims to the deflation of the American navy, Secretary Daniels has made a most admirable witness. Earnestly and impressively he has maintained the honor of our brave sailors and altogether convincingly he has demonstrated that Sims was totally mistaken, if not viciously wrong.

Indisputably he has shown this prideful arm of the military service was quick to appreciate the end to be made upon it and was prepared therefor, and so wisely were the plans laid and effectively carried out that in two short years it not only became the most powerful it had ever been, but actually the greatest and strongest the world ever knew, surpassing even that of England, the long boasted mistress of the seas, with five years of hostility behind her.

Aye, more than that he proved that it was the American navy, encouraged and inspired by its commanders, that had put a real punch into the superior sea armament of the Allies and thereby hurried Germany to her overthrow, instead of delaying it as Sims accused.

As one reads after Daniels, pursued his story of the tremendous achievements amazement grows that with this record blazoned before him as it was one of its chief officers should allege so much to its discredit and its dishonor.

What was the motive that lay behind? It will not do to say the honest one of improving the service by showing its shortcomings, because Sims goes farther, than that in his belittlement. He gives no credit and he states failures and weaknesses that never developed, makes allegations that were diametrically controverted by all the plain and simple facts.

The world may never have true answer as to the motive, but before it an officer has discredited himself.

You heard, everybody has heard, of burning up money. Uncle Sam was in that business the other day, and as his way he did it in colossal style, touching the match to sixty million dollars. Oh, it wasn't wild waste. The money was confederate currency, captured at the fall of Richmond, stored all these years in the treasury vaults and now destroyed to make room for real values. The mint and press are busier than ever turning out greenbacks and other forms of government notes by the bale and every inch is needed for their storage.

The Diary of an Engaged Girl

OUR HEROINE MEETS ANOTHER WONDERFUL MAN

It was a wild party that we went to after the dinner. But, dear me, when I burst into the room there was one of those delightful bushes that thrill the soul of a woman to its deepest depths. I met everyone, and then we all settled down to much laughter, melody and merriment.

It was scheduled to be a wild evening. I sensed that at once and was secretly pleased, for if there is one thing I love it is to be present at a riotous party.

Jack did his best to keep an eye on me at first, but gave it up as a bad job after a bit. It was fortunate for him, for whether it was my scarlet robe or my radiant cheeks, I think it was the look of his eyes that explained to me all that he wished me to know. His dark, imperative eyes. I know that I shall dance with him again, not once, but many times. I know that he is going to figure in my life, come what may. And that I shall have nothing to say in the matter. It was all ordained ages ago by the gods!

I can write no more. I am too exhausted in every way. I seem to have lived through some tremendously emotional period in my life this evening, and strange to say my own Jack was merely an onlooker. I am the most thrilling person to myself. And yet I am by no means a sphinx. (To be continued.)

BILLY WHISKER

BY FRANCES TREGO MONTGOMERY

About 11 o'clock in the morning, while he was telling "Day" that his mind was made up to start west the next day at sunrise, Billy Jr., looked up and saw the horse from the west turn into the lane with a fine looking gentleman on his back. He ran over to the fence to see if he could not get a word or two with the horse. When pretty near to him, the gentleman stopped his horse and Billy Jr. heard him say:

"My son! but that is a fine looking goat. I would give a hundred dollars to have him west to lead my flock."

"Hah, hah," laughed Billy Jr., which meant, "You can have me for ten cents." As the gentleman rode on, Billy Jr. said to himself, "Oh, why can't people understand us as we can them, for then I could plead with him to take me west!" And he walked off and pulled an inoffensive goat in his anger.

Billy Jr. failed to hear what Mr. Whisker asked for him, but he heard the gentleman say:

"It is a large and I will send my man for him tonight. For I expect to leave very early in the morning for Boston to catch the westbound train!"

(Tomorrow Billy Jr. starts west.)

WHO'S WHO In The Days News

MARTY MCCUE

Congressional circles hear that Marty McCue, a former prize fighter and now a member of the New York assembly, soon may be a member of the house. (Marty is said to be seriously considering sending him to Washington in payment for his good record as an assemblyman. Recently McCue made a wonderful speech against the C. I. v. e. socialist members of the assembly. A. D. that put him in line for promotion.)

McCue's record is an unusual one. Born on a farm, he came to New York and learned the boxing game, entered it as a professional and walloped the darlings out of most of his opponents. Five minutes before each fight he used to retire to one corner of his dressing room and pray for victory. In the ring he always wore his prayer beads around an ankle. In later years he ran a saloon, but he never took a drink. In the assembly he fathered the widows pension bill and saw it enacted into law. Once when a sanctimonious senator killed the bill McCue rushed upon the senate floor and threatened to thrash him.

A former pugilist already has served in the house. He was John Morrissey, a champion. He had money. Efforts were made at one time in a Boston district to run John L. Sullivan for congress, but he declined to get into the race.

New-York - Day - By - Day

BY G. O. MONTVIE

NEW YORK, May 22.—There is something entrancing about the general appearance who ride on the Long Island trains to Belmont Park. They are all as roses among the desert of third commuters. Not once do they look out the windows to see the Long Island roll, and receive its blinding benison of sunshine. They pour over their race track form sheets.

They are indeed bright flowers. A typical race track man may be seen wearing a flowing overcoat of a fuzzy brown color and a derby of hisrlot brown. He has a gray suit and joyful socks of heavy wool, yellow and black and green in patterned squares which are so vivid they seem cubes rather than squares.

He has a heavy, but close cut, black mustache, his shaven cheeks are a magnificent silver, his chin amazingly blue by the illustration of a keen razor. His shirt is robin's egg blue with a thin stripe of glorious sunrise pink and the collar matches.

It seems to have a fine contour for his fellow man and he appears in a new corner with a searching eye. And yet he seems capable of taking it all in, to a fashionable lounge, where his manners are superb.

After the day at the track they return to the most fashionable cafes in whose waiting rooms are finely upholstered women who seem to receive them unthinkingly—seeking a look that will tell whether the day has been one of good or bad luck. They are women who use rouge with reckless abandon and they are just as religiously performed.

But their clothes are made by the best—fluffy but fitting frocks. The evening meal is a feast, no matter what the luck of the day. Afterward they settle back to talk and swap their form sheet of tomorrow's entries, brought forth and a campaign for another day is started.

Harry Lehr and his wife are to take a villa in Newport this summer. They will return to America from France in June. But it is a different Harry Lehr of the monkey dance fame. He is now a solitary business man and is well up in years. His return to Newport will bring to mind a first of memories of the days when his being entertained added zest to the great social comedy of New York.

CARRANZA AND AIDES KILLED IN MOUNTAINS

MEXICO CITY, May 21—(By The Associated Press)—President Venustiano Carranza who, with a small party of followers has been a fugitive in the mountains of Puebla since late last week, was killed at Tlaxcalaltongo early Thursday morning, according to official announcement here. His companions, the names of whom are unknown also were killed.

General Rodolfo Herrera, it is said, directed the attack that resulted in the death of the fugitive president and his followers. He belongs to forces commanded by General Francisco De Mariel, who accompanied Carranza in his flight from this city, but who last week deserted Carranza and joined the revolutionists.

There is some uncertainty regarding the exact affiliation of General Herrera. It is generally believed possible, however, that he commanded a small unit which was with the fleeing president. He was in rebellion against Carranza for several years, centering his operations in the state of Puebla. He surrendered last March to General Mariel, who was in command of government forces in that state.

When General Mariel went over to the revolutionists last week a portion of his troops, it is known, remained loyal to the president, and belief exists that Carranza might have taken along with him in his flight toward Tlaxcalaltongo, which finally turned against him.

Tlaxcalaltongo is a small village in the vicinity of Huamantla, in the northern Panhandle of the state of Puebla. It is approximately 85 miles from San Andres, where Carranza left his forces and took refuge in the mountains.

The official announcement was given out at 10:30 o'clock tonight from the headquarters of General Alvarez Obregon.

Wealthy Draft Dodger Makes His Escape

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., May 22.—The wealthy draft dodger who escaped from non-commissioned army officers at his mother's home here yesterday in a high powered motor car, was still at liberty today. Both federal and city authorities said that an all night search had failed to reveal even the direction in which he went.

Shortly after Bergdoll got away the police covered all avenues of escape around the city and every place it was thought he would be likely to go was closely watched throughout the night. Flyers describing the fugitive and the car in which he made his escape were sent to all sections of the country and it was announced that a systematic search would be made for him.

The exact nature of Bergdoll's visit to Philadelphia with which was considered of sufficient importance to warrant his temporary release from the military prison at Fort Jay, N. Y., where he was serving a five years' sentence for evading the draft, had not been explained. According to the military authorities at Governor's Island he was given a three days' furlough to attend to "important business matters," which were said to be confidential. Department of Justice agents here are investigating certain aspects of the case, which they say point strongly to collusion. While they would not say upon whom their suspicion rested, they declared they were convinced that Bergdoll was aided in his escape.

When he got away Bergdoll was dressed in his army prison garb of olive drab denim and on a metal disc, which he wore on a string about his neck, was his convict number, 10.

STIFF FIGHT ON SOLDIER BONUS BILL

WASHINGTON, May 22.—House opponents of soldier relief legislation were concentrating their forces today in an effort to prevent consideration of the bonus bill next week under limitations prescribed by Republican leaders. They were successful yesterday in preventing a vote today as had been planned.

Minority members reinforced by about 60 Republicans were determined to oppose the steering committee's plan to have the measure discussed and either adopted or rejected by Thursday without full privilege of amendments. They contended their combination was sufficiently strong to defeat the rule giving the bill right of way for passage or to amend the rule and thus pave the way for inclusion of a tax on war profits.

Representative Rainer of Illinois, ranking minority member of the ways and means committee, in his report stated he would endeavor to include the war profits tax in the bill. He said the bill was ill-considered and calculated to "hurry us ever nearer financial disaster."

Chairman Foraker, submitting the minority report, avoided any direct argument for passage of the measure and asserted that the legislation could be financed only by new taxes, without which, he declared, the measure would be "inexpedient, if not entirely useless."

Republican leaders still maintained that the bill would eventually pass the house and then be sent to the senate. Some predicted what disposition would be made of it there.

JOHNSON LEADING IN OREGON

PORTLAND, Ore., May 22.—Senator Hiram W. Johnson was leading the fight of four candidates for the Republican presidential preference vote on the floor of Oregon today last night from the Oregon primary election.

At 11:15 p. m. last night the count from 15 counties including 155 incomplete precincts in Multnomah county gave:

Johnson 1,178, Wood 1,104, Louden 417, Hoover 292.

Incomplete returns from 102 Multnomah county precincts on the count for Democratic nomination for United States senator gave Senator Chamberlain, seeking re-election, 670, and Harvey G. Starkweather, an avowed opponent of ratification of the league of nations covenant without reservations 501.

Johnson To Make Address

CHICAGO, May 22.—Senator Hiram Johnson, candidate for the Republican nomination for president has engaged the auditorium for June 2, and will be the principal speaker at a meeting of the night before the opening of the Republican national convention, it was announced today by Edgar J. OPENING STOCKS

NEW YORK, May 22.—Stocks were active and strong at the opening of today's short session, oils, particularly the Mexican group, leading on reports of the death of former President Carranza. Representative rails, allied equipments also scored substantial advances and sugar recovered materially from yesterday's sharp setback. Doctors and their subsidiaries were irregularly higher, the rubber issue being especially responsive to a moderate inquiry. Dealings in liberty bonds at the outset were comparatively light but with indications that yesterday's rally would be maintained.

Whites And Negroes In Battles

PITTSBURGH, May 22.—Refusal of a negro to provide a whiskey glass for a group of white men drinking in a street here precipitated a fight that resulted in the death of two and the wounding of six other persons. Two policemen were among the injured.

After stabbing two men the negro procured a repeating rifle from his home and kept the neighborhood in a state of panic until he was shot and killed by policemen.

FAYETTEVILLE, N. BONIFACE FAVORITE IN BIG RACE

LOUISVILLE, KY., May 22.—No overnight changes were made in the list of fifteen 3 year olds and up distance horses of the 1920 season, which will attempt to negotiate the distance of a mile and a quarter to the $10,000 added money Kentucky handicap at Churchill Downs this afternoon.

Indications this morning were that clear weather and a fast track would be in vogue.

Boniface, which this spring won five of six starts including the Clark handicap, was reported by turf critics as the probable public favorite in the race. King, winner of the handicap in 1917, however had many supporters, as did Midway, winner of the stake last year, and E. B. McLean's The Porter, Boniface and De Frank are the only casted horses in the race.

Inability to obtain a railroad express horse car prevented J. K. J. Ross, Canadian turfman from sending Sir Barton, 1919 Kentucky derby winner here to run in the race with Boniface, according to announcement by Trainer H. G. Redwell.

NO LACK OF PEP SHOWN HERE; FRENCH LADIES' FOOTBALL TEAM IN TRAINING

Arch Preservers Too Much For Joe Barber's Club, Spence Pitched Fine Ball

Under ideal weather conditions and before the largest crowd of the season, the Arch Preservers, commandingly known as the Selby team, triumphed over Josephus Barber's Excelsiors Friday evening by the score of 4 to 1.

In what was the poorest played game of the year, there was little life, pep and the game dragged out over an hour and a half. The teams made costly mistakes, but behind the pitching of Spence, Selby's main effort of the season, it made little difference for the big Selby hurler held the opposition to one little hit, chalked up to the credit of Spence. Spence was on out in the last inning and Mr. Lewis, tall and angular, finished the game without allowing a hit. An error on the part of Barber, however, gave the Excelsiors their lone score. Manager Barber essayed the task of relieving the East Enders to victory, but he was given a rather warm reception while he was on the mound and he retired in favor of Irwin Ross at the beginning of the fourth inning. Ross did very well, thank you, and the only run scored off him in the three innings that he officiated was due to an error.

The crowd was of magnificent proportions, splendid tribute to the chess industrial league, which is furnishing some rare sport at the Seventeenth street yard during the early twilight. But the game was not of the hair raising order and there was little done to enthrall the populace.

The Excelsiors had come to the grounds in style, being escorted by Martin's Cornet Band, which rendered fine music on the way to the scene of action. Everything was therefore in proper tune to the joys of the occasion—all but the game, which, as stated above, was of a listless nature. The Arch Preservers were off to a lead right off the bat, scintillating play giving them the jump at the get-away. They earned their first marker and that is all they should have had. But as often stated, errors are a part of the game and were it not for them quite a large amount of anxiety would be removed. While the Arch Preservers were presented with three runs, they handed their rivals their lone tally. Evidently the Selbys know how to drive a baseball better than the East Enders. The small sized rally pulled by the Excelsiors in their last trips to the plate, served to enliven the proceedings, but it was of such short life that it died shortly after first.

The one bright spot in the past time outside of the hurling of Spence, was the rapid fire work of Colia at second for the Selbys. This little fellow with the red flannel undershirt, was a regular will of the wisp, accepting eight chances without the semblance of an error. He would, however, have had one more chance had he remembered the fact that it is always necessary to tag an unforced runner. Had this play gone through the Selbys would have had four double plays to their credit. But three is going some in that direction.

The Arch Preservers scored no earned run in the opening inning. Hock laid down a pretty hard and easily beat the play to first. Stewart crossed up in the infield by singing hard to left. Manager Brennan sacrificed very artistically and Kearns, who hit the ball hard every time up, was good for a long sacrifice fly to right. Hock started Monk waded at his best girl in the stands.

In the third the Selbys made a couple. Spence was tossed out by Henge, but Hock beat out a roller to short. Henge erred on Stewart's roller. Brennan struck out while Kearns got hold of one to his living and started to muddle. Hock and Stewart muddled Monk singled to left, but Weber tossed to left. They added one more in the fifth. Hock was safe on Cornette's miff of his dew. He was sacrificed to second by Stewart. Barber tossed while on Brennan's roller and Hock came in. Kearns filed to middle. Monk singled and Weber walked. But Brennan hit to Barber for a force out.

The Excelsiors struggled against great odds for Spence seemed to have their number from the start. The big fellow showed the batters down with regularity and dispatch. In the last inning, he seemed to tire a little. He walked Donley for a starter and Brennan kicked Cornette's roller. Spence was derided at this juncture, probably at his own expense, and Lewis, still situated, Cornette was forced at second on Barber's roller to short.

Friday night the Portsmouth Hat Company's nine and the Gilbert Grocery Company team staged the first game on the new York Park ball diamond, but in shape for the Wholesalers and Manufacturers' leagues. The collection of the grounds was marked by a walk-away victory for the Portsmouth Hat Company boys who won 20 to 4 in seven innings.

This game furnished plenty of amusement for the crowd that lined the road walls. There were a goodly number of Gilbert Grocery fans in the crowd, and they stood loyally by their team, while the Portsmouth Hat bunch was running up the score.

Manager Blankenbiller, of the latter's, had a hard time trying to fill the mound. He had to give up the hill after several innings. Manager Blankenbiller says he will have a better team on the field next time, and that their next opponents will know they are up against a team. A number of free passes handed the Hat men coupled with timely hits, were responsible for the large score.

Gilbert Grocery on the other hand, carried all three runs. Blankenbiller, remaining master of ceremonies all the way through, Ohio Hickey was the first one in the league to send a ball over the flood wall in right field, and a short time after Hickey's climb, Edna Lord duplicated it. Miss Colyer in action.

"The demoness tennis player," is the title given to Miss E. Colyer of England because of the great action she puts into her playing. She covers a remarkable amount of ground and is regarded as one of the best England has to offer. She is said to do as much of her playing in the air as on the ground, and the accompanying photographs seem to prove it.

Occupants Flee From Fire In "Nighties"; House Badly Damaged

Awakened by stifling smoke, which filled their room at 2 o'clock this morning, Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Woods, who live at Fourth and Bond streets, discovered that their house was on fire.

The fire started in the kitchen, and so rapidly did the flames spread, that Mr. and Mrs. Woods and two children, Margaret and Janet, and Miss Julia Rian, who boards with them, had to flee to their night apparel. The only clothes they saved were those they grabbed in their hurry to get out of the flame-filled house.

Mrs. Leotie Woods and four children, Ultera, Graybill, Imogene and Rudolph, who occupy the front portion of the house, also were not awakened until the house was filled with smoke, and they had to get out so quickly that they too only saved a very few of their personal effects. Several of Mrs. Woods' children were compelled to flee from the home in their bare feet.

When the fire was discovered the kitchen was all aflame, and the roof was blazing high, and it looked like a serious fire was imminent.

A general alarm summoned the Second street and East End companies, and as soon as a line of water was thrown on the flames they were confined to the one-story structure in which they originated as there was no wind to fan the flames. The house was badly damaged by fire and water. Mr. and Mrs. M. G. Woods and Mrs. Leotie Woods had no chance to carry any household goods out and they were water soaked. At one time it looked like the flames would communicate to Mr. and Mrs. Peter Devere's home on the east, but their house escaped damage.

Mrs. M. G. Woods and Mrs. Leotie Woods purchased their cottage last year from Dr. S. P. Richard. They carried sufficient insurance on it, but very little on their household goods.

Another Large Audience Enjoys P. H. S. Class Play

Before another capacity house last night the Senior Class play was repeated in the High School Auditorium, with a change in the cast of the leading actresses.

It was in every way fully as successful a production as that enacted the preceding night.

Probably the most appreciated feature of the between acts program was the interpretation of poetic diction by Misses Lillian and Helen Matthews. Miss Lillian acted in a white dress and Miss Helen, who wore the part of the exact executed some very pleasing dance numbers. They were accompanied on the piano by Miss Louise Beatty.

The play club and High School orchestra, under the direction of Mrs. F. N. Schenck, entertained with numbers.

Last night the roles of daughters of Lord Laram were enacted by Misses Lorena Marr, Ina O'Brien and Helen Schultz. Miss Florence Hein played the part of Countess of Brookhurst; Miss Agnes Scott that of Twenny; and Miss Helen Scott that of Jeanne. These were the only changes in the cast of characters.

Scarcity Of Farm Hands

Every farm is up against the labor question. The farmer trying to compete in the labor market is facing too great a handicap. The Reliable Trust and Finance Company, of this city, has been investigating the farm labor problem and assigns the following reasons:

Average wage received in 1919 by regular farm labor, $3.45 per day. Average wage paid for labor in 1919, 10c.

A shortage of farm labor will continue until industrial production is up to normal.

Farm help will be hard to get for some time to come. The farmer is faced with two alternatives—decreased acreage in crops, or poorer farming. The fact that over 50,000 tractors were sold during 1919 alone indicate how farmers are solving their problem.

AMERICAN LEGION HERE TO TAKE PART IN IMPRESSIVE PARADE ON MEMORIAL DAY

Eighteen hundred marching men in full uniform, representing the army, navy and marines and Red Cross workers, Canteen Workers and Y. M. C. A. workers, will form the main part of the Memorial Day parade this year if plans of the James Dekey Post No. 23, American Legion are adopted.

Every man who served in the armed forces of the United States, or since during the recent war, every man who served in the Student Army Training Corps, the Red Cross or served as Secretary or Y. M. C. A. worker, the Canteen Workers and Red Cross Home units are invited to join in the line of march.

"If you haven't joined before" a letter mailed to all ex-service men by the Legion reads, "fill out the application and mail it," one of the leaders said Saturday.

"The Legion is your own society, 100 per cent American, non partisan and non military. It is working for the Soldier's Compensation act, a club room of their own, a rifle club with their own range and every help for the ex-service man and the country he lives in."

On Monday May 31, every ex-service man will parade in full uniform to do honor to our dead. We can't expect the country to remember if we ourselves forget. Be proud of your service and your uniform and of the chance to show honor to our buddies who died in that uniform.

"The parade will form at the S. & W. freight depot, Gallia and Lincoln streets at 8:30 o'clock.

"Be there sure. We meet on the second Tuesday of each month at the Grand Bar hall, Gallia and Chillicothe streets.

"Come whether you belong or not. We need every man in the Legion. Let's all get behind it and make it the first organization in the country."

MATCH IGNITES GASOLINE; EXPLOSION FOLLOWS; BOY IS BURNED TO DEATH

A lighted match and gasoline proved to be a costly combination to Frank Hubbard fourteen year old stepson of Will Stevenson of South Side, Catlettsburg, Friday afternoon when he died from burns received in a gasoline explosion.

He was doing some cleaning with gasoline at McGlothlin's garage when he lighted a cigar and tossed the match to one side. The match fell into some gasoline and an explosion followed. Hubbard's clothes being covered by the burning fluid. In his excitement he dashed back and forth through the garage until two men smothered the flames with their clothes and tore the burning clothes from the boy.

He was taken to a drug store where scolding lotions were applied and then he was taken to King's Daughters' hospital Ashland where the doctor said he was beyond human effort three o'clock this morning.

FIRE IN "BOARDING HOUSE"

Fire of unknown origin caused an estimated loss of $300 at the McGlothlin boardinghouse, 1153 Eleventh street, about 4 o'clock Friday afternoon and an additional loss of $500 was caused to the furniture and household effects of the occupants by water. The fire started in a rear attic on the third floor, which is a frame structure of 25 rooms and the blaze was burning briskly when discovered.

Firemen from all three companies responded to the alarm, and before long had the blaze under control, though there was considerable delay in getting a line of hose laid by reason of the fire plug across the street being out of commission and a train blocked the way to a hydrant further west on Eleventh street, making it necessary to lay a line to Thirteenth and Waller streets.

A huge cloud of smoke enveloped the house, attracting many persons to the scene, and it was extremely difficult for the firemen to gain access to the stuffy attic, which was used for storing old furniture and mattresses, on account of the volume of smoke. There was no one occupying the room although it had formerly been used for sleeping quarters.

The house is owned by Judge James S. Thomas, and the loss is fully covered by insurance.

Hazelbeck Will Insure You.

Geo. A. Goodman, president of the Association, stated Saturday morning that the reason for the postponement of the drive for funds was the desire to appear before the public at a time when no other drive is on, or about to be put on. They did not desire to conflict with the Salvation Army drive, which will be for $200,000, the money to be used for the erection of a hospital on the Baron property from Eighteenth street through to Kinney's Lane.

Mr. Goodman stated that this is the first time the association has stepped aside for another drive. Members of the association are: Geo. A. Goodman, chairman; Father J. B. McGee, Dr. T. G. McCormick, Father H. H. Lawrence, J. Wagner, Father T. A. Guelch, John W. Snyder, and John Vogel.
